A handful of remarkable accomplishments solidified 2008 as a year that will always hold a special place in Ani Black's heart. Not only was Ani nominated for the prestigious Dr.

Wentz Vision Award, she also joined USANA's exclusive Million Dollar Club. And, after more than a decade committed to changing lives, the well-recognized USANA Associate advanced to Diamond Director.

"My enthusiasm for sharing USANA just keeps growing," Ani says. "I am proud to share Dr. Wentz' remarkable vision, and I am motivated by the fact that USANA truly is making a difference in lives throughout the world."

In August, Ani realized a longtime dream when she was honored as a Dr. Wentz Vision Award finalist for her commendable efforts to improve the health of everyone she meets. "There is no other award in USANA that could make me happier," Ani says. "My belief in the vision of our founder is the rock on which I stand when I am speaking to people about USANA. Receiving the nomination for the Dr. Wentz Vision Award is such a great honor, and I knew I must reach out even more and connect others to the USANA family."

The honor came on the heels of another remarkable accomplishment, this time for Ani's business achievements. In March Ani qualified for USANA's exclusive Million Dollar Club, which is reserved for Associates who have earned $1 million over their USANA careers. She and her husband, Ian, flew to Salt Lake City in June for the induction ceremony. "The Million Dollar Club retreat was a celebration that capped a decade of steady effort," Ani says, remembering fondly the weeklong event in which she and her husband were treated like royalty. "I cannot imagine another experience in my life that even remotely resembled the Million Dollar Club induction. I don't know any company that treats its people as well as USANA does. The corporate tour, our private meals, and meeting with our corporate executives, it was all very emotional, exciting, and educational."

Ani, who had been interested in health for years, joined USANA more than a decade ago simply for the high-quality nutritional supplements. Pleased with the results, she started telling everyone she knew about the products. In 1999 she founded Best Team International and remains passionate about promoting Dr. Wentz' vision. "This year was a culmination of many years of work," Ani acknowledges.

While 2008 proved to be phenomenal for Ani both personally and professionally, she continues to work diligently toward her ultimate goal—to help as many people as possible improve their health and obtain financial freedom. It's a commitment

“When I think of all the people suffering in the world today I feel compelled to tell them about USANA. USANA can help improve everyone’s quality of life in so many ways.”

Ani’s proud to pursue. “Making a difference in the world has always been important to me,” Ani says. “The more hands-on I am in that process, the happier I am. I invest my time and energy in my USANA downline and crossline partners.

Ani defines luxury:

“Travel, Travel, Travel! I love our beautiful ocean view home, and I love seeing the big wide world. My definition of luxury is being able to travel the globe. USANA has made this possible.”

It’s up to us to give the word ‘commitment’ meaning in a fast-moving world. We are here to make this world a better place, and I cannot imagine a better business partner than Dr. Myron Wentz.”
